Wooddin could star in Europe says Eusebio

USSR 3 (Gavrilov 23rd, Blothin 47th, Baltacha 68th). NEW ZEALAND 0 in Malaga. Referee Youssef El-Ghoul (Libya).

SOVIET UNION - Dasayev, Sulukvelidze, Chivadze, Baltacha, Demyanenko, Besonov, Bal, Darsella (Ognevsky), Shengelia, Gavrilov (Radionov), Blothin.
NEW ZEALAND - van Hattum, Dods, Herbert, Eirik, Booth, Cole, Sumner, MacKay, Cresswell, Ruter, Wooddin.

Three team changes failed to give the Kiwis the upset result they had hoped for, but at least they are earning accolades from the very top.

Striker Steve Wooddin for example, has gained no less an admirer than the great Eusebio of Portugal who reckons Wooddin could be a sensation in Europe with the right coaching.

Wooddin, who scored in the 2-5 loss to Scotland, is contracted to South Melbourne Hellas, but said before the World Cup he wants to return to New Zealand.

Hellas, unhappy with Wooddin's decision, is likely to seek at least $20,000 for him, in New Zealand.

And if a European club decides to buy him, the price is sure to skyrocket, giving Hellas an unexpected windfall.

New Zealand coach John Adshead, the Muhammad Ali of the World Cup, replaced John Hill, Sam Malcolmson and injured Bobby Almond with Ricky Herbert, Duncan Cole and Glen Dods for this game.

"We're looking to players who can run," he said.

Two days before the Scotland game Adshead said he would settle for a three-goal defeat provided his team played well, and added: "I suppose the perfect result would be around 5-2 for the Scots, that would give us enough reason to celebrate."

It was an uncanny prediction, but what he said before the USSR game unfortunately did not come true.

"Obviously the Russians are a better team, and we're a developing football nation, but we have a positive attitude, and will score as many goals as we can."

New Zealand can look back on the night with pride. The Kiwis matched the mighty Soviets in every department in the first 45 minutes before succumbing after the interval.

The New Zealanders were denied a 21st-minute lead when Soviet goalkeeper Renat Dasayev, who has been in outstanding form, pulled off a spectacular save to turn away a Kenny Cresswell header for a corner.

Three minutes later the Soviet Union went in front. Oleg Blothin accelerated into the area and from his cross Gavrilov scrambled the ball over the line after a goalmouth melee.

Soviet manager Konstantin Beskov must have done some hard talking during the break and Blothin in particular restarted in style.

The excellent Anatoly Demyanenko crossed from the left and although Ramaz Shengelia miskicked in front of goal, Blothin appeared from nowhere to provide a clinical finishing touch.

Blothin was also involved in the third goal. He took a splendid pass from fullback Tengiz Sulakvelidze and rolled the ball into the path of central defender Baltacha whose close-range shot almost burst the net for the 50th goal of the tournament.

Adshead was delighted with his team's performance and said: "We came to learn and won a lot of respect even in defeat."

"The side is largely amateur and we were very nervous about playing in the World Cup but the players are growing in confidence with every match."

We also have included the selections of FIFA president Joao Havelange, who volunteered his best 10 to journalists in Madrid.

Eder won the poll with 59 out of a possible 70 votes, nine ahead of West Germany's Karl-Heinz Rummenigge.

There were seven sets of votes, each from 10 down to one (see left).

Players who stood on top of the world in the first round may have their reputations tarnished in the hot-house atmosphere of the second round, where fear of making even the slightest mistake will have even the strongest men dangling by their nerve ends.

The first round ends on Saturday morning, our time, and the second round starts next Tuesday morning.

As we went to Press, only Brazil, England and Argentina were certain to reach the second round.

The other nine positions remained in doubt.

Cameroon, the cinderella team which has captured the imagination of the whole world, gets its chance to qualify when it meets Italy in the last group One match tomorrow (Thursday).

Much will depend in that game on Cameroon goalkeeper Thomas Nkono maintaining the form that has made him No. 5 in our best player poll.

The moment of truth in Group Two comes on Saturday, when West Germany meets Austria, the team that ousted the Germans 3-2 in the second round in 1978.

This time the winner will advance and the loser can go home.

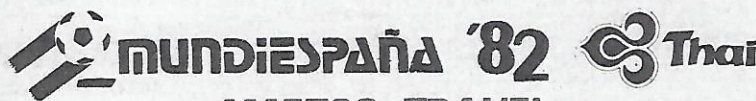

Second place in this group will be determined by the clash between Algeria and Chile on Friday. Argentina will go through by beating El Salvador tomorrow (Thursday).

day), the other second-round team from Group Three will be Belgium or Hungary.

Anything can happen in Group Four, but England certainly is through, while in Group Four, even leader Spain was not safe as we went to Press. Yugoslavia still had a slim chance of making it on goal difference, providing it thrashes Honduras on Friday.

The USSR v. Scotland game today (Wednesday) will determine which of them accompanies Brazil into the next round from Group Six.

Meanwhile, we watch breathlessly as Eder, the 25-year-old Brazilian winger of Atletico Mineiro, and Rummenigge, the 26-year-old striker of Bayern Munich, cut paths of destruction through their World Cup opponents.

Nkono stars in thrilling match

CAMEROON 0 POLAND 0 at La Coruna. Referee Alexi's Ponnat (Belgium).

POLAND — Miysarczyk, Majewski, Janas, Zmuda, Jakubowski, Boniek, Iwan (Szarnach), Palasz (Kuszt), Smolarek.
CAMEROON — Nkono, Kaham, Onana, Ndiaye, Mbom, Aoudou, Abaga, Kunda, Mbida, Milla, Ngoua (Tokoto).

Cameroon was never outclassed by Poland and occasionally looked the more likely team to break the deadlock in an encounter that was action-packed despite the absence of goals.

The outstanding figure in the match was Cameroon goalkeeper and team captain, Thomas Nkono, whose spectacular agility kept the luckless Polish forwards at bay.

Poland threw everything into attack in the first half and was unlucky not to go ahead through midfielder Zbigniew Boniek and strong running by Andrej Iwan and Andrej Palasz.

A Polish goal seemed only a question of time, but Nkono played a faultless first half and twice dived full length to keep his goal intact.

The Africans, trained by Frenchman Jean Vincent, showed their mettle in the second half with fine approach work by substitute Jean Pierre Tokoto who laid on plenty of chances for Roger Milla and Gregoire Meida.

In the closing minutes, as the play veered swiftly from one end to the other in the best group one spectacle so far, Boniek made a last half-hearted shot at the Cameroon goal but he failed to breach.

Tension ran high at times and Belgian referee Alexi Ponnat booked Andrej Palasz of Poland for dissent and Ibrahim Aoudou of Cameroon for a foul on Boniek. Milla was cautioned in the second half for throwing the ball in Wladyslaw Zmuda's face in protest against what he considered excessively close marking.

Cameroon manager Jean Vincent said: "Of course we are delighted with this draw. We never expected to achieve such results when we came to Spain. We have shown we are a match for the best teams."

Vincent added he was not worried at the prospect of facing Italy in Cameroon's final group one game in Vigo. Polish manager Anton Piechniczek said: "Our players should have got one or two goals. I know they are capable of better things."

Milla, 29, had a swollen right knee from a collision last Tuesday's 0-0 draw with Peru when he had to be carried off, but he recovered in time to play. So did Poland's versatile winger Andrej Iwan who also limped off in Poland's first match, a goalless draw with Italy.

Midfielder Boniek, who looked incredulous a week ago when asked about Cameroon's chances of winning, said before the game the African team had earned respect because of its fitness and unexpected good ball control.

"We have prepared very carefully for this match," he said. "We have taken note of the lesson Peru had to learn."

Boniek will join Italian club Juventus after the World Cup for a fee reported to be in excess of $475,000.

Polish team sources said promising forward Piotr Skrobowski was virtually ruled out of Poland's first game because of a knee injury while Andrej Szarmach had proved a disappointment in training so far.

Szarmach was a hero of Poland's win away to East Germany in the qualifying competition but manager Piechniczek lost sight of his current form because he now plays for French league club Auxerre, the sources said.

Spain's manager relieved of his sole selection duties

SPAIN 2 (Juanito penalty 14th, Saura 65th) YUGOSLAVIA 1 (Gudelj 10th) at Valencia. Crowd 50,000. Referee Henning Lund - Sorensen (Denmark).

Spain relieved its manager of most of his responsibilities after what was regarded as a humiliating performance against Honduras in the opening World Cup match.

Federation President Pablo Porta insisted that the National Coaching Board help manager Jose Santamaria pick the side after it struggled to draw 1-1 with the Latin Americans.

Santamaria was told to drop brilliant but erratic forward Juanito but as it turned out, he retained his place against Yugoslavia.

Juanito — real name Juan Gomez — felt he was being made the scapegoat after Honduras. "I know I didn't have a good game but I wasn't the only one," he said.

The Spaniards knew they would never be forgiven if they lost to Yugoslavia and memories of their last match with the Yugoslavs did help them. An Ivica Surjak goal gave Yugoslavia a 1-0 win on this same Valencia pitch three years ago.

Yugoslavia swept into the lead after 10 minutes when Vladimir Petrovic passed from the right and the ball was driven home at close range by Gudelj.

Two minutes later Miguel Alonso appeared to be floored just inside the penalty box, but landed inside the area and was awarded a penalty which Roberto Lopez Ufarte kicked wide.

Danish referee Henning Lund-Sorensen ordered the penalty to be retaken because Yugoslav goalkeeper Dragan Pantelic moved too soon and this time Juanito hammered the spot kick home in the 14th minute.

Safet Susic hit the bar immediately afterwards, but Spain took charge as it won control of midfield.

Rafael Gordillo provided an added attacking boost with aggressive running from defence.

When he was brought down by Nenad Stojkovic during a 34th minutes break on the left, the Yugoslav was booked.

Yugoslavia, with Edhem Sivjovic and Susic spearheading its raids, made the running early in the second half, but the Spaniards absorbed the pressure and then snatched their 65th minute winner when Saura netted from Juanito's cross.

Spain was stunned by an early goal from Ivan Gudelj, but equalised soon afterwards through Juanito from a twice-taken penalty.

The balance was decisively tilted by a double second-half substitution which included Enrique Saura replacing Jose Sanchez after 64 minutes.

Saura made his impact a minute later when he bundled home the winning goal from close range to send the flag-waving Partisan fans in a capacity 50,000 crowd into ecstasy.

Brazilian sorcery

BRAZIL 4 (Zico 33rd, Oscar 48th, Eder 64th, Falcao 86th) SCOTLAND 1 (Narey 18th) at Seville. Referee Luis Siles Calderon (Costa Rica).

BRAZIL — Valdir Pires, Leandro, Zico, Edmundo, Edinho, Renato, Zico, Falcao, Tostinho Carato, Serginho, Eder.

SCOTLAND — Alan Rough, David Narey, Willie Miller, Alan Hansen, Frank Gray, Gordon Strachan, Graeme Souness, John Wark, Aza Hartford, John Robertson, Steve Archibald.

Substitutes: George Wood, Danny McGrain, Kenny Dalgleish, Alex McLeish, Paul Sturrock.

Brazil produced another display of soccer sorcery. The Scots fought with typical passion, but long before the end they were bewitched by Brazil's trickery, bothered by the debilitating heat, and bewildered by the sound of the incessant samba on the terraces.

Scotland made a dream start in 18 minutes when David Narey scored a brilliant opener. He exchanged passes with Gordon Strachan and fired a blistering right-footer past Valdir Pires.

But their dreams of glory began to crumble 17 minutes later when Zico struck a cute free kick round the Scottish defensive wall and past the bemused Alan Rough.

Three minutes after the interval, central defender Oscar was left unmarked and headed home a delicately floated junior corner.

From then on, with the Scots witting in the heat, it was nearly all Brazil. Eder and Falcao scored in the 64th and 86th minutes.

Scottish manager Jack Stein made four changes, all unexpected, on his team for this match.

Captain Danny McGrain, Kenny Dalgleish, Allan Evans and Alan Brazil were all left out.

Tele Santana, Brazil's manager, was more restrained, bringing in Cerezo, who missed the 2-1 win over the Soviet Union through suspension, but otherwise leaving well enough alone.

● Former German captain Franz Beckenbauer (right) meets Algeria's star Lakhdar Belloumi before West Germany's shock 2-1 defeat. The Germans hit back a few days later though, thrashing Chile 4-1.

Pele praises Germans: 'They want the Cup'

WEST GERMANY 4 (Rummenigge 9th, 57th, 67th, Reinders 82nd). CHILE 1 (Moscoso 90th) at Gijon.

The Germans, who recovered from a morale shattering opening defeat against Algeria to trounce Chile — a defeat which all but ended the South American's hopes of advancing — are the European team most likely to challenge Brazil and defending champion Argentina.

Even former Brazilian ace Pele was impressed.

"West Germany demonstrated in the second half their ambition to win the title," he said.

Karl-Heinz Rummenigge, the European player of the year, was in stunning form as he boosted his World Cup goals total to four in two games.

He was on target in the ninth, 57th and 67th minutes with goals of real quality.

Uwe Reinders, playing in only his second full international, got the fourth German goal two minutes after coming on as a substitute, while Gustavo Moscoso got a late consolation goal for the Chileans.

Rummenigge, who passed a fitness test only an hour before the kickoff, played a captain's part in leading the West German revival.

A banner in the stadium proclaiming "Rummenigge Wier Lieben Dich (we love you)" was just the right message for the Germans who seemed to have lost much of their fans affection after the previous Wednesday.

The West Germans, stunned by the humiliation of the Algerian defeat, showed twice the commitment and resolution fighting for every ball.

Rummenigge opened the scoring after nine minutes when he latched onto a pass from Pierre Littbarski and drove a long shot at goal.

Mario Osben, Chile's goalkeeper, should have stopped it but as he sprawled to his left the ball squeezed under his body. After their flying start, the Germans never looked back.

El Salvador puts up a fight

BELGIUM 1 (Coeck 17th) EL SALVADOR 0 at Elche. Referee Malcolm Moffat (Nth Ireland).

BELGIUM: Pfaff, Gerets, Millicamps, Mouwys, Baech, Vandersmissen (Van der Elst, 45th), Coeck, Vercauteren, Czerniatynski, Vandersborg, Coulemans (Van Meer, 80th).

EL SALVADOR: Mora, Osorio (Diaz), Jovel, Rodriguez, Racinos, Fagoaga, Venzura, Huano, Ramirez Zapata, Gosalvez, Rivas.

Belgium, so impressive in beating champion Argentina on Sunday, showed a more modest face in its second World Cup match against El Salvador.

The Salvadoreans, buried by 10 Hungarian goals last Tuesday, manned the ramparts and restricted Belgium to a slender 1-0 victory. Ludo Coeck scoring the winner after 17 minutes.

Belgian manager Guy Thys was philosophical about his team's performance which he established it at the top of Group Three.

"After Hungary's result there was never any chance of us topping the group on goal difference," he said. "Victory was more important than goals."

The Belgians were frustrated by a methodical El Salvado defence which showed no ill-effects from that 10-1 rout by Hungary.

Clearly concerned to avoid a similar experience, El Salvador crowded players into the middle of the pitch and rarely ventured into the Belgian half.

The tactics foiled the Belgian attack, dominant in the air but powerless to create chances.

The 17th minute match-winner came from a setpiece move when blond midfielder Coeck, Belgium's best player, thundered a 25 metre free-kick past Luis Guevara Mora in the El Salvador goal.

On every other occasion Mora, having put the 10-goal nightmare behind him, was equal to the sterile Belgian strikers.

'I am not sacked': Adshead

New Zealand coach John Adshead has described as "absolutely untrue" an Australian newspaper report that he has been sacked as national coach.

The report in "The Australian" quoted Adshead as saying that he had been sacked and reported that the New Zealand camp in Spain was split, with Adshead not talking to other officials.

A bitter Adshead is reported to have described a new contract offered for the continuation of his tenure as coach and manager as ludicrous and "the biggest joke ever".

However, Adshead said in clarification that although he considered the new contract offer "laughable", it was not true to say he had been sacked.

"A job offer was made prior to my leaving New Zealand and if I don't accept it, then I will resign," he said.

"I'm in no hurry to leave New Zealand. I'd like to see the whole matter resolved satisfactorily," he said.

World Cup committee

director Charlie Dempsey said from Marbella that the only offer so far made to Adshead concerned his job as team manager. No contractual arrangements had yet been discussed concerning his job as coach, Dempsey said.

Bertoni matches Maradona!

ARGENTINA 4 (Bertoni 26th, Maradona 28th & 55th, Ardiles 61st). HUNGARY 1 (Poloski 75th) at Alicante. Referee: Belaid Le-carne (Algeria).

HUNGARY — Ferenc, Mezzaroz, Gyozo Martos, László Balint, József Toti, József Varga, Imre Gábor, Tibor Hyáns, Sándor Tórcsik, Tibor Rab, László Kiss, Gábor Poloski.

Subs: Balázs Káti, Attila Repák, László Fazekas, Andras Tórcsik, László Szentes.

ARGENTINA — Osvaldo Farioli, Jorge Olguin, Luis Galvan, Daniel Passarella, Alberto Tarantini, Osvaldo Ardiles, Americo Galego, Diego Maradona, Daniel Bertoni, Mario Kempes, Jorge Valdano.

Subs: Hector Balay, Juan Berbes, Gabriel Calderon, Ramon Diaz, Jose Van Tormes.

Diego Maradona justified his rating as the world's number one player — he deserved four goals, not two — but it would be unfair to praise him at the expense of Daniel Bertoni.

If Maradona is No. 1, Bertoni must be up there pretty close to him, at least on this performance.

It was his opening goal that set Argentina on the path towards the second round, and without the support of Bertoni, Maradona would not have looked quite as good.

After this emphatic 4-1 win in which it showed the flair and imagination that earned it the trophy in 1978, Argentina received a tribute from Hungarian manager Kalman Meszoly.

"The way Argentina played in the first 45 minutes they could have beaten any team in the World Cup. The game was virtually over by halftime," he said.

Gone was the hesitancy of Argentina's opening match defeat by Belgium. Gone too was the dark depression the players felt in the wake of Argentina's military defeat in the Falklands.

Instead, it was all verve and dash. Argentina should strike a special medal for manager Cesar Luis Menotti for the way he pulled his players round in the critical hours before the match.

The men who stuttered to defeat against Belgium became swashbuckling heroes as they ran rings round a Hungarian team which only three days earlier had hit a record ten goals against El Salvador.

Menotti brought striker Jorge Valdano into the line-up for this make-or-break Group Three match.

Valdano came on as substitute in place of Ramon Diaz in the title-holders' 1-0 loss to Belgium in their opening game.

Hungary made three changes to the side which routed El Salvador 10-1. Striker László Kiss, who came on as substitute and scored a hat-trick, replaced Andre Tórcsik in attack and József Varga and Tibor Rab tightened the defence and midfield.

Maradona was denied more goals by the agility of Ferenc Mezzaroz. But the Hungarian goalkeeper was unable to prevent Daniel Bertoni and Osvaldo Ardiles adding their names to the score-sheet.

Menotti brought striker Jorge Valdano into the line-up for this make-or-break Group Three match.

Kuwait players earn $8600 for draw

KUWAIT 1 (Al Dakhil 58th) CZECHOSLOVAKIA 1
(Panenka pen. 21st) at Valladolid.

The shocks, the surprises the upheavals in this World Cup have no ending. After Algeria and Honduras, came little Kuwait's performance against well-drilled Czechoslovakia.

Their 1-1 draw could well have brought a better prize because a Czech upright wobbled outrageously in the first half, and the Czechs had to suffer one or two more jabs to their nervous system afterwards as the speedy Arabs soared through on both flanks.

Al Dakhil's equaliser for Kuwait after Panenka's first-half penalty must have inspired more than one budding coach seeking employment in the Middle East.

The Kuwaitis are spurred on in this competition by promises of huge financial gains.

In addition to the $200,000 each for a successful first round, the Kuwait Soccer Federation has promised each player $8600 for a draw and $17,000 for a win.

The Gulf side, in no way overawed by the reputation of the Czechs, played sparkling soccer.

The Kuwaiti brand of football clearly showed the influence of Brazilian coach Carlos Alberto Parreira and suggested they could be a threat also to England and France, the other Group Four contenders.

Despite conceding a dubious penalty after 21 minutes, the Kuwaitis were easily a match for the Czechs — particularly after the interval.

Kuwait was kept pinned back in defence by the probing Czechs early on and the Europeans were just about worth their half-time lead.

They deserved a goal, but must count themselves lucky in the manner in which it came. Striker Ladislav Visek was obstructed by Abdullah Mayouf as he tried to cut back from the goal-line.

Ghanaian referee Benjamin Kwabena Dwomoh hesitated before pointing to the spot. Amid jeers and whistles from the crowd of 22,280, Antonin Panenka stepped up to slot the ball just inside the post.

The balance was restored in the 58th minute when sure-footed striker Faisal Al-Dakhil raced from midfield to slam home a spectacular equaliser.

It was then that Kuwait really turned on the style and the Czechs were lucky not to concede another goal in the closing stages.

Kuwait of course is well known to Australian fans.

Goalkeeper Al Tarabulsi and forward Fathi Kamil — the 'Arabian Pele' — were in the team that beat Australia twice in the 1977 qualifying rounds.

Sljivo a threat but Norm steals show

YUGOSLAVIA 0 NORTHERN IRELAND 0 at Zaragoza.
Crowd: 21,000. Referee: Erik Fredriksson (Sweden).

YUGOSLAVIA: Dragan Pantelic, Zoran Vujovic, Vladimir Zajec, Nenad Stokovic, Milos Hrstic, Edhem Sijovic, Ivan Guduli, Ivica Surjak, Vladimir Petrovic, Zlatko Vujovic, Safet Susic.
Substitutes: Ratko Sular, Ivo Jerolimov, Milos Sestic, Jurica Jerkovic, Velimir Halilovic.

NORTHERN IRELAND: Pat Jennings, Jimmy Nicholl, John McGlinchey, Chris Nicholl, Mal Donaghy, Sammy McIlroy, Martin O'Neill, David McCrory, Gerry Armstrong, Billy Hamilton, Norman Whiteside.
Substitutes: Tommy Cassidy, Jim Platt, Bobby Campbell, Noel Broderston, John O'Neill.

Northern Ireland, boasting the youngest player ever to appear in a World Cup finals match, held finals dark horse Yugoslavia to a scoreless draw in a half empty La Romareda Stadium.

This was night match but it didn't escape the searing heat which has engulfed Zaragoza for the past fortnight.

The heat didn't stop 17-year-old Manchester United striker Norman Whiteside from thrilling the small group of Northern Irish fans. He outshouted everyone else in the 42,000 capacity ground.

The selection of Whiteside was a huge gamble by manager Billy Bingham who made way for the youngster by omitting experienced winger Noel Broderston. Whiteside, who was 17 on May 7, made his debut with Manchester United only last season.

Although the Irishmen could not match the Yugoslav skills, they played with heart and determination in an oven of a stadium.

The Yugoslavs had the better of the early exchanges and Safet Susic went close with two sharp shots in as many minutes.

Edem Sljivo, the Yugoslav front-runner, was a constant worry to the Irish defence with dazzling runs in the first half. But he faded after the interval.

Swedish referee Erik Fredriksson had problems late in the first half when things looked as if they might get out of hand, but the sides settled down to soccer again after the interval.

The Irishmen certainly did not look like a side who had not won a match since qualifying for the finals.

Caszely misses Chile penalty

AUSTRIA 1 (Schachner 22nd); CHILE 0 at Oviedo.

Chile was foiled by a penalty miss and by a deluge of rain which made its delicate ball skills largely ineffective.

Coincidentally, it was heavy rain which contributed to Chile dropping a point to Australia in the 1974 World Cup.

Again, we had a grim, uncompromising game which matched the dour, overcast weather.

Walter Schachner scored the only goal midway through the first half to put Austria level at the top of Group Two with Algeria.

There was little to recommend the game in which Chile passed over a golden opportunity to equalise by missing a penalty five minutes after the Austrian goal.

Uruguayan referee Juan Cardellino booked three players for fouls — Austria's Josef Degeorgi and Chile's Lizardo Garrido in the first half and Roland Hattenberger of Austria in the second.

The Chilean victim came time was fleet-footed Patricio Yanez whose jinking runs down the wings were a rare bright spot on an afternoon which saw the floodlights turned on before the end.

Schachner scored in the 22nd minute when he slipped his marker on the right of the penalty box and fired a cross from Bernd Krauss into the far corner of the net, beating the only defence not to concede a goal in qualifying.

Chile should have evened the score five minutes later when Krauss scythed down 32-year-old Carlos Caszely as the striker sped towards goal. But Caszely, a survivor of Chile's 1-1 World Cup squad, failed to convert the penalty, firing the ball outside the right post.

Austria was unlucky not to go further ahead in the 65th minute when a shot from Schachner hit a post and bounced across the goalmouth but failed to find the net.

Causio helps but Diaz draws it

ITALY 1 (Conti 18th). PERU 1 (Diaz 84th) in Vigo.
Referee: Walter Eschweiler (W. Germany).

ITALY 1: Dino Zoff, Antonio Cabrini, Fulvio Collovati, Claudio Gentile, Gaetano Scirea, Giancarlo Antognini, Giampiero Marini, Marco Tardelli, Bruno Conti, Francesco Graziani, Paolo Rossi.
Substitutes: Giuseppe Bergomi, Ivano Bordoni, Gabriele Oriali, Franco Causio, Alessandro Altobelli.

PERU 1: Ramon Quiroga, Jaime Duarte, Toribio Diaz, Salvador Salguero, Jorge Olaschea, Cesar Cuesta, Jose Velasquez, Teofilo Cubillas, Julio Cesar Uribe, Juan Carlos Obillos, Gerónimo Barbilillo.

Substitutes: Eusebio Acasuso, Guillermo La Rosa, Oscar Arizaga, Eduardo Malasquez, German Leguia.

After an impressive first half, the Italians brought on Franco Causio for the still-ineffective Paolo Rossi and concentrated on protecting their one-goal advantage.

Causio took up station in midfield and the Italians worked hard at checking Peru's insistent attacks. But just when it seemed the Italians had weathered the storm, along came the equaliser.

Teofilo Cubillas skimmed a free kick square in front of goal and captain Toribio Diaz raced forward to drive home.

Dino Zoff had the ball covered but it took a cruel deflection off Conti and the Italian skipper could only watch the ball hurtle past him.

Italy had produced something approaching its best form in the first half and was well worth its interval lead.

The goal came from a neat build-up on the left. Giancarlo Antognini, enjoying another impressive game, released a square pass to Conti in front of goal and his rising shot flashed into the top of the net.

But the second half belonged to Peru and it was only two reflex saves by 40-year-old Zoff that prevented more goals.

We'll have two again

Africa, Oceania and Central America can count on the same number of teams each in the next World Cup finals in 1986, according to FIFA President Jose Havelange.

"From now on the World Cup will be organised with 24 teams," said Havelange, "and Africa, Oceania and Central America, whose qualifiers have played with great credit here, will continue to have two teams each."

Havelange said FIFA had more than doubled its receipts over the 1978 finals in Argentina.

Austrians win 17-1

Austria, which angered Spanish fans by refusing to play a friendly the day before, made some amends when it beat a local team 17-1 (halftime 7-0) near Gijon.

Kurt Welzl was top scorer with five goals in the match against Cadiz, the village outside Gijon where the Austrians are based.

The previous day hundreds of Spanish fans whistled their disapproval when Austrian manager Georg Schmidt called off a match in the town of Pola de Siero because he feared his players might be injured on the bumpy pitch.

Pump scare

Officials at Alicante's World Cup stadium got a fright when a large package arrived marked urgent.

The label said it contained nine footballs and a "Bomba." The Spanish word "bomba" can mean a bomb or a pump. The package contained a pump for inflating the balls.

Whipped along by irrepressible winger Gabor Poloskai, Hungary amassed a record score for a World Cup finals game in thrashing El Salvador 10-1.

Poloskai scored only one goal but had a hand in most of the others.

The previous highest finals score was 9-0 — by Hungary over South Korea in 1954 and by Yugoslavia over Zaire in 1974.

Previously unheralded Laszlo Kiss came off the bench to score three times in the second against El Salvador.

The fast and furious Hungarians swarmed over the bewildered Salvadorans, who managed their only goal ever (they were scoreless in 1970) in the final stages of a World Cup on a shot by Luis Ramírez Zapata in the 65th minute.

His team mate Gonzalez however was one of the game's stars.

Tibor Nyilasi and Laszlo Fazekas each scored a pair of goals, while Jozsef Toth, Poloskai and Lazar Szentos also tallied for the rampant Hungarians.

Hungary's avalanche of goals provided a welcome variation to its hapless start to the finals in Argentina four years ago when it was beaten 2-1 by the hosts in the opening game and had Tibor Nyilasi and Andras Torocsik sent off. Both men were again in action this time.

West Germans gaped at their television screens in disbelief as their much-fancied national team crashed to a 2-1 defeat by unfancied Algeria in Group Two.

"Incredible," "a nightmare," "a catastrophe," were the words sports commentators used to describe the result.

As the green-shirted Algerians outran and outplayed the West Germans, a television commentator felt obliged to remind viewers: "In case you're unsure, the Germans are the ones with the white shirts."

Outside a television shop in Bonn, dozens of fans were stunned into silence by the result and in the city's pubs the atmosphere was described as funeral-like.

A bar owner in Essen put up a sign warning: "Anyone talking about football tonight will be ejected."

But interior Minister Gerhard Baum sent the team a telegram, saying: "Chins up—don't let it get you down. Everything is still possible."

Within minutes of the Algerian victory, thousands of delighted happy people raced into the streets of downtown Algiers as motorists blasted their horns and jubilant fans set off fireworks.

The normally crowded streets and sidewalks were deserted during the match as people gathered around every available television set to watch the game.

"The West Germans were strong opponents, but today we saw their defects and took advantage of them," Algerian coach Khaled said.

"Our team still lacks some scoring ability but that is more or less a psychological problem," said Khaled, who took over the squad several months ago after Yevgeni Rogov was dismissed.

Belloumi said his winning goal "is dedicated to the Algerian people for the 20th anniversary of independence, which was celebrated this year."

Following on Cameroon's heroic no-score draw against Peru, Algeria's win showed the world that African soccer power is for real.

Making their World Cup debut, the Algerians were regarded as no-hopers against the two-time champions. West Germany and the result made nonsense of the form chart in Group Two.

The Germans had been expected to dominate, leaving Austria and Chile to battle for the second qualifying slot.

The Germans could have no complaints about emerging on the wrong end of one of the most unexpected results in World Cup history.

Algeria's goals came from Rabah Madjer after 53 minutes and Lakhdar Belloumi in the 68th minute. Karl-Heinz Rummennigge scored the Germans' goal after 67 minutes.

The Algerians, who three months ago could finish only fourth in the African Nations Cup, achieved the remarkable distinction of joining Brazil and reigning world champion Argentina as the only teams to beat West Germany since 1978 in the World Cup.

The Algerians, after a first half which proved they need not be overawed by the reputation of the West Germans, took the lead eight minutes into the second half through winger Rabah Madjer.

Belloumi, African Footballer of the Year who had a brilliant game, waltzed into the penalty area to sweep in a shot which could only be deflected away from the net.

Madjer, lurking on the right, fired into the goal on the angle and was buried by his rapturous teammates.

West Germany launched a furious counter-attack and Algerian captain Ali Fergani and goalkeeper Mehdi Cerbah were both injured in the onslaught.

The pressure paid dividends. After 67 minutes, the Germans drew level as Karl-Heinz Förster released Felix Magath on the left. Magath's centre was met by the on-rushing Rummennigge who slid the ball unerringly into the net.

But Algeria's response was swift and decisive. Within a

ESPAÑA 82 Boniek outshines Rossi

• Jan Jalocha (right) of Poland and Bruno Conti of Italy vie for the ball in their draw at Vigo.

POLAND 0 ITALY 0 at Vigo, crowd about 30,000, referee Michel Vautrot (France)

ITALY: Dino Zoff, Claudio Gentile, Gaetano Scirea, Fulvio Collovati, Antonio Cibirri, Gianpiero Marini, Giancarlo Antognoni, Marco Tardelli, Bruno Conti, Paolo Rossi, Francesco Gradianti.

Substitutes: Ivano Bordoni, Giuseppe Bergami, Costello Orsini, Alessandro Altobelli, Franco Causio.

POLAND: Józef Młynarczyk, Jan Jalocha, Stefan Majewski, Wiesław Zmuda, Paweł Janas, Andrzej Buncol, Grzegorz Lato, Zdzisław Boniek, Waldemar Matyszk, Andrzej Iwan, Włodzisław Smolarek.

Substitutes: Marak Kusto Roman Wohcicki, Jacek Kasimierz, Marek Dębala, Andrzej Szarmach.

Zbigniew Boniek lived up to his awesome reputation and veteran striker Andrzej Szarmach surprisingly was left out as Poland and Italy drew 0-0 in Group One.

For Italy it was the first time in five World Cup campaigns that it has failed to win its opening match.

The Italians, champions in 1934 and 1938, demonstrated all the inhibitions that have marked their World Cup performances in recent years while the poles, emerging from a troubled domestic scene, performed with typical doggedness.

For a period in the first half it seemed the Italians might carry all before them as Gian-carlo Antognoni orchestrated their play from midfield, setting up a series of probing attacks.

But the effort evaporated in the second half and, with the flame-haired Boniek playing superbly well, it was Poland that was more deserving of a goal.

Even when they were pressing in the first half, the Italians lacked the necessary thrust in front of goal and manager Enzo Bearzot will have been particularly worried by the form of Paolo Rossi. His comeback after a two-year suspension for alleged involvement in a bribery scandal was far from impressive.

The game was played in cool, damp conditions before a crowd of about 30,000.

NUT CASE?

Ramon Maradiaga, a 24-year-old midfielder for Honduras, says he doesn't mind being called "El Primitivo" (The Primitive One).

"My schoolmates gave me the name about 12 years ago. It doesn't mean much," he says. He is said to have been given the name when he was spotted playing soccer outdoors during a monsoon.

Fastest goal?

Official match statistics issued by tournament organizers give 27 seconds as the time for Bryan Robson's goal for England against France.

Ole Nyberg of Sweden scored early in the match against Hungary in 1938, but timings for his goal vary from 25 to 35 seconds.

Manuel Ruche Santome, Vigo delegate of the World Cup organising committee, admitted there had been a mix-up between the national agency, Mundespaña, and the Vigo central ticket office.

"We managed to sort out the problem by 1430 (2230 AEST) and the available tickets went on sale an hour later. But of course it was too late then," Santome said.

A regional Spanish newspaper deplored what it called shoddy organisation of the game between Poland and Italy. Tickets were not made available at the stadium box office until the last moment, resulting in a crowd of only 27,000 compared with the ex-

BRAZIL 2 (Socrates 73rd, Eder 88th) USSR 1 (Bai 33rd) In Seville. Referee: Augusto Lamo Castillo (Spain).

Brazil: Valdir Peres, Leandro, Oscar, Luisinho, Junior, Socrates, Zico, Falcao, Dircou, Serginho, Eder.
Substitutes: Paulo, Isidoro, Paulo Sergio, Edvaldo, Edinho, Renato.
Soviet Union: Renat Dasaev, Tengiz, Sukhvelidze, Alexander Chivadze, Sergei Balache, Anatoli Demianenko, Ramaz Shengelia, Vladimir Bessonov, Yuri Gervilov, Oleg Blokhin, Andrei Bai, Vitaly Daraselia.
Substitutes: Khoren Gogonyan, Sergei Borovskiy, Sergei Andreyev, Yuri Suslopov, Vyacheslav Chirnov.

Black striker Serginho emerged as a potential world super-star with a dashing display in Brazil's inspiring 2-1 victory over the USSR in Seville.

Although Socrates and Eder scored the goals, it was Serginho who disrupted the Soviet defence with his skill, timing and heading ability.

But really, everyone of the wizards of Brazil turned on their magic to snatch this last-ditch victory in a game hailed as one of the greatest in the history of the World Cup.

After Brazilian goalkeeper Valdir Peres had presented the Soviet Union with a gift goal in the 33rd minute, Brazil teased and tormented its bemused opponents with a mesmerising display of brilliant dribbling. Dazzling passing and explosive long-range shooting.

The Brazilians also showed they have the executioner's touch when they turned seeming defeat into a famous victory with two classic goals from captain Socrates and winger Eder in the 73rd and 88th minutes respectively.

Brazilian manager Tele Santana called it one of the best matches the World Cup has seen in half a century, and the thousands of Brazilians who sang and swayed through the streets of Seville hung on his every word.

In Brazil, excited fans from Belem on the Amazon River to Porto Alegre near the Uruguayan border began a night of celebrations as soon as the final whistle blew in Seville.

Four years ago, in the 1978 World Cup, Brazil seemed to have lost its way. It was no longer able to baffle opponents by its mercurial quickening of the match tempo, its remarkable improvisation and its dazzling individual flourishes.

They tried to switch to the more robust European style and failed. But now Santana has moulded his team into something resembling the great Brazilians of the past.

Memories of Brazilian legends of the past, such as Pele, Garrincha and Didi, came vividly to mind, as Brazil teased and tormented the Soviet Union into submission.

But Eder's winning goal was a cruel blow to the Soviet Union which was without a number of injured stars and had performed above and beyond the call of duty.

With a draw very much on the cards, Eder pounced on a loose ball on the edge of the Soviet penalty area and rifled a stunning drive past stationary goalkeeper Renat Dasaev.

One Brazilian who did not enjoy the evening's performance was goalkeeper Valdir Peres who endured a personal nightmare.

His worst moment came 12 minutes from the interval when the Soviet Union, which had always looked dangerous in its sporadic raids, broke out of defence and midfielder Andrei Bai tried a hopeful shot from 25 metres.

Bai's effort appeared to carry little threat but the hapless Valdir Peres contrived to juggle the ball into the corner of his net.

It took Brazil 40 minutes to equalise. Socrates gained possession about 30 metres out, took two steps and dispatched a sizzling right-foot shot unerringly into the top left-hand corner of the net.

With Socrates and Falcao dictating in midfield and Zico always ready to burst through the middle, the Brazilians laid siege to the Soviet goal for long periods.

Only the elegant and acrobatic Dasaev denied them a cluster of goals and as early as the second minute he pulled off a superb save when Zico let fly from close in.

However, the beefy Soviet goalkeeper should have been given no chance when centre-forward Serginho broke clear, only to loft the ball wildly over the bar with the goal at his mercy.

But the Soviet Union, which beat Brazil 2-1 in Rio De Janeiro two years ago, was always dangerous in its counter-attacks.

Ole Brazil, ole Serginho

Winger Ramaz Shengelia was a constant menace and Brazilian defender Luisinho was lucky not to concede a penalty when he appeared to haul back the flying winger by his shirt.

Spanish referee Augusto Lamo Castillo incurred the wrath of the Soviet players again when he turned down a strong penalty appeal for apparent handball by Luisinho in the closing minutes.

Ipswich's Dutch international midfielder player Arnold Muehren has agreed to sign for Manchester United without a fee changing hands.

The details were ironed out in manager Ron Atkinson's absence by United chairman Martin Edwards, the final signing will be on July 31 when Muehren's contract with Ipswich expires.

Muehren, 31, was at the end of his contract with Ipswich and free to negotiate his own terms.

When Muehren signed for Ipswich in 1978 from Dutch first division club Twente Enschede, he insisted on a clause in his contract which gave him the freedom to move, without a fee, when he had completed his engagement.

Ipswich manager Bobby Robson was unable to agree terms with the player for his continued stay and Muehren opted for Old Trafford.

In the 1980-81 season Pantelic scored a hat-trick of penalties in one game for Bordeaux as well as saving one himself in the same game.

Johan Cruyff gave Scotland a boost when he said that although Brazil and West Germany are favorites, he thinks Scotland has the talent and ability to surprise us all in Spain. In the 1974 finals Scotland was unbeaten in the first round but failed to qualify on goal difference after drawing with Brazil and Yugoslavia while in the 1974 finals beaten by Peru and held to draw by Iran, was the only side to beat runner-up Holland other than the eventual winner — Argentina.

Tony Woodcock has signed for Arsenal — ending a chase that has lasted for more than a year.

The former Nottingham Forest striker's $350,000 move from Cologne was finalised in the Hertfordshire hotel where England is completing its World Cup preparations.

Arsenal secretary Ken Friar went there with the transfer forms, which were deposited at Football League headquarters along with those of Yugoslav captain Vladimir Petrovic. Six other clubs, including Italy's Roma, were chasing the England forward. But Woodcock said:

Jorge Alberto Gonzalez Barillas, the 21-year-old midfielder known simply as "Maggie" is undoubtedly the kingpin of El Salvador's side, while his sweeper Jaime "Jimmy" Rodriguez who plays in the West German Bundesliga for Bayern Urding is another to catch the eye.

West Germany, with the talents of Franz Beckenbauer and Gerd Mueller all in the distant past, may produce another gem in the person of 21-year-old midfielder Lothar Matthaus of Borussia Mönchengladbach who recently silenced the Brazilians and Argentinians when he subdued Zico and Maradona on their South American tour with his tremendous marking job on the two most skilful players in the world.

Bruno Pezzey is reckoned to be the ace in the Austrian pack. He plays for Eintracht Frankfurt and as a sweeper is reckoned the best foreign player in the Bundesliga.

Billy Bingham, the Northern Ireland team boss, played for his country in the 1958 World Cup finals in Sweden. He had a host of international caps for Northern Ireland while playing with Sunderland, Luton and Everton.

Kenny Dalglish is now Scotland's most capped player ever. He has now worn the blue jersey 86 times as well as playing a key role for Liverpool in all its successes since he moved from Celtic in 1977 for $800,000. Bob Paisley said at the time "we lost Keegan but God gave us Dalglish".

Brasileiro Sampaio de Sousa Ferraira Oliveira, otherwise Socrates of Brazil, has stated his intention to retire after the World Cup even though he is only 27. Socrates, a 6'3" midfielder, is a fully qualified doctor of medicine, is skipper of Brazil.

Algeria is built around two of the biggest defenders to grace the finals. The pair are Mahmoud Guendouz and Norrendine Kouirich both around the 6'3" mark. Algeria has had 11 coaches in 15 years and only recently Yugoslav-born Yevgeni Rogov was replaced by Algerian-born French international Rachid Mekoufi who had a previous spell as boss in 1978.

Next season ITV takes over the plum Saturday night soccer slot from the BBC and the West German Bundesliga for Bayern Urding is another to catch the eye.

England goes Latin under coach Maggie

Here's a World Cup guide with a difference.

While players, officials and fans are enjoying themselves on and off the field in the festive atmosphere of football's world championship, some aren't so lucky. We're talking about those who fall victims to the very regimes that seek to bolster their image through sport success.

So this form guide, which was compiled by the Monash University newspaper "Lot's Wife" in Melbourne, will help you to tell the goodies from the baddies. Quotes given are from "Amnesty International Report, 1981."

We reprint this alternative world Cup guide with thanks to "Lot's Wife," and its editors Robert Elliott and Marita Landman.

SPAIN

Like every home team the Spanish have been valiantly trying to clean up their play (or rather give the impression that they're clean Western democratic players like everyone else). But their concern with "terrorists" has led them to be very enthusiastic about locking people up and throwing away the key. Under anti-terrorist legislation, suspects can be detained without trial for long periods. Amnesty International has been consistently obstructed by Spanish authorities in Amnesty's attempts to investigate regular claims of torture of detainees but Amnesty reports that last year one prisoner, Jose Izaguirre, died in detention.

A post mortem examination revealed injuries to his lungs, burns on his feet, bruises to his body, eye injuries and severe internal bleeding.

Rough players these, not exactly up to the standard of some of the international competition, but perform well on their home ground.

BRAZIL

In the terror stakes Brazil is much admired for its ability to appear "democratic" while maintaining the internal excesses of most of its neighbours.

Welcomed by European and North American teams as a de facto white developed nation, Brazil nevertheless has developed a subtle blend of political oppression techniques involving the imprisonment of "intellectuals," the removal of peasants and good old-fashioned genocide.

Brazil is at the moment involved in the annihilation of Kayapo Indians who stand in the way of agricultural and mining development in the Brazilian interior.

EL SALVADOR

Well, what can you say about El Salvador that hasn't already been said? A comparatively small country but a real contender in the terror stakes. Imported coaches from the US have helped this team a lot. A combined military action was reported in May 1980, when hundreds of people, mainly women and children, were killed by Salvadorian troops as they tried to cross the Sumpul River into Honduras, while Honduran troops blocked their way. "Masters of the 'big play'!"

PERU

Peru's chance of ever making the grade of Chile is severely handicapped by what appears to be a lack of stomach for the game.

Peru concentrates on the routine plays, such as, "the periodic short term detention of thousands of civilians each year for political or trade union activity."

They play a basic game, lacking the brilliant attacking moves of Chile and Argentina.

Yugoslavs win over locals

Yugoslavia has mounted an impressive public relations campaign in an effort to win the hearts of the Zaragoza fans.

The Yugoslavs were the only team staying in the Aragon capital, in a five-star hotel right in the heart of the city.

"We chose such a hotel in order to stay in close touch with the people of Zaragoza. We want to behave well and we want to have the crowd behind us when we play our games," said coach Miljan Miljanic.

Miljanic, who has coached Real Madrid and is fluent in Spanish, has struck a cordial and easy relationship with local newsmen, patiently answering long questions.

Other Spanish-speaking team officials distributed team booklets and other team souvenirs and the Yugoslavs assumed a generally easy-going manner in contrast to many other teams which were placed in isolated camps and held away from the public.

Scottish blackout

Scotland's World Cup base at Soto Grande just north of Gibraltar has been declared out of bounds until further notice for members of the international press.

The debacle in Argentina four years ago when Scottish officials felt there was too much publicity, is being blamed for the news clampdown.

CHILE

A really underrated little team enjoying all the enthusiasm for the sport as their Argentinian neighbours. Indeed this side has done remarkable things given the hindrances they've had to suffer.

Back in the bad old days when Allende was team manager, Chilean torture fell well below international standard and was indeed all but obliterated. But a natural aptitude and inherent love of the game, afforded by the new management, has led to a remarkable comeback. A team to watch.

ENGLAND

After failing to qualify, in its own right, for recent finals (despite a world standard performance in Northern Ireland) England made a fine comeback under the management of one of the few women coaches in the game, Maggie Thatcher.

Under Maggie, England has begun to copy the South American style, showing no hesitation in using its police force against the black minority. England's hopes of pulling off this year's 'Junta of the Year' award were lifted recently after a victory in a long hard-fought match with world champions Argentina.

Winner of the 'International Brightest New Totalitarian Prospect of the Year Award' this season.

NORTHERN IRELAND

Despite being small in size Northern Ireland remains active in the political oppressions takes. Hailed by some as the champion of Western Europe, Northern Ireland remains Britain's claim to fame.

The only place in Western Europe ever to have actually introduced what amounts to martial law (including the usual detention without trial, later converted to a more innovative non-jury kangaroo court). Security forces in the province take pride in their 'interrogation techniques'.

"On 18th of January 1978 the European Court of Human Rights judged that interrogation practices used by security forces of the United Kingdom . . . were inhuman and degrading . . . the European Commission on Human Rights says that these practices constituted 'torture'."

ARGENTINA

Current world champion in the International Civil Rights Infringement Cup. Renowned for its audacious moves.

In soccer, dissenting players can be sent off for the remainder of the game. In the last few years many thousands of dissenting Argentinians have been 'sent off' very permanently.

Argentina is highly faecied to retain the trophy for many years to come, given the ever-experimental nature of its game. Amnesty's list of groups subjected to this particularly offensive regime reads like the telephone book.

Says Amnesty, " . . . organisations inside Argentina trying to investigate and monitor human rights abuses have been harassed, intimidated and arrested." A brilliant move this, not only do they beat up the opposition, they also beat up the referee!

Spectator enjoyment is however greatly reduced by the fact that the Argentinian squad performs some of its best moves at night and by the lack of media coverage.

Indeed the Argentinian players are so jealous of their tactical manoeuvres that anyone reporting them may regret it.

POLAND

This team has just hit the international headlines again with a series of spectacular friendly matches often played at the Polish port of Gdansk, after a long period in the doldrums.

Unfortunately Poland suffers from the 'lock em up' syndrome so performance is judged mostly by the number of unionists who can be put in custody at one time rather than what actually is done to them once they get there.

CZECHOSLOVAKIA

Again a rather colourless Central European side " . . . Amnesty International received information about the harassment, intimidation and short-term detention of active police dissidents for the non-violent exercise of their human rights." Run of the mill stuff this.

CAMEROON

The Cameroons had us worried. For a while we thought we'd found a team with a comparatively clean record, but we find " . . . reports that political prisoners were being held without charge or trial, including . . . suspects held in custody by the police or the paramilitary police known as the Brigade Mixte Mobile, have been beaten and ill-treated as a matter of course."

WEST GERMANY

For a period during the '30's and 40's the Germans held undisputed claim to the world title (indeed some say the Germans fielded the best team in history)—inventors of the concept of "totalitarian football" which has since proved so successful.

England players snub the Mayor of Bilbao

The Mayor of Bilbao held a glittering official reception for the England World Cup contingent, but none of the players showed up and instead had lunch at a local golf club.

"I'm terribly disappointed," Mayor Jon Castanares told reporters at the reception in the Town Hall of this northern Spanish city. A number of England team officials were at the mayor's event.

"The invitation was for both players and officials and I expected that at least some of the players would have been here," the Mayor said.

"We always invite visiting teams here and can only presume the team wanted to rest before the first game against France."

Commenting on the absence of the players, England team Press officer Glen Kirton said the invitation came only on that morning and the players had accepted a "previous invitation."

Ted Croker, general secretary of the England Football Association, said that even if the players had had an opportunity to attend, it would have disrupted a rigid training pattern.

"They have to have lunch at one o'clock and then lie down in the afternoon before training," he told journalists invited to the reception.

England manager Ron Greenwood earlier told an im-prompt news conference that team captain Kevin Keegan would be representing the players at the function.

Admitting there had been a "small mix-up", Greenwood said that at the last minute, the team doctor, Vernon Edwards, had advised against Keegan attending "as he has a slight cough and might have been affected by the smoky atmosphere."

Guillermo Fernandez, public relations officer for the city of Bilbao, said "It did not surprise me that the players did not come. They attended one reception here already in February when they played a friendly against Atletico Bilbao."

West Germany's Paul Breitner (foreground) and Karl Heinz Rummenigge (right) leave their hotel under the watchful eye of a police guard.

BODYGUARDS FOR STARS

West German stars Karl-Heinz Rummenigge and Paul Breitner from Bayern Munich and sweeper Uli Stielike from Real Madrid have special bodyguards.

At least two plainclothes policemen join the West Germans in their bus when the team travels to training sessions in Mareo, eight kilometres south of Gijon. Similar security measures are provided for Austrian stars Bruno Pezzey, Hans Krankl and Herbert Prohaska.

2 buses bombed

An ultra right-wing group claimed responsibility for setting fire to two coaches chartered by Scottish soccer fans.

A Spanish newspaper also said the group threatened an "anti-British summer" in retaliation for the events in the Falkland/Malvinas Islands.

According to "El Pais" a spokesman for a group called the "Triple A" said: "We shall go on placing devices not only in British coaches, but also in private cars in response to the Malvinas (Falklands) and Gibraltar."

Spain has a long-standing claim to the British colony of Gibraltar and Spanish rightists have given vocal support to Argentina over the Falklands/Malvinas conflict.

Another right-wing group, Reconquista Espanola (Spanish Reconquest), has also claimed responsibility for burning the coaches in the coastal town of Terremolinos.

No-one was injured in the fires.

Camel capers

The mascot of the Kuwait team, a live camel, arrived in Valladolid and was duly accredited, Mohammed Jassem, the secretary-general of the Kuwait soccer association said.

Hakoah's title, Waldron for Wolves, high stakes in SA

By LAURIE SCHWAB

Most people now expect Sydney City Hakoah to win the 1982 PSL title by at least five or six points. I'm one of them and I confidently predict that Hakoah will make short work of APIA at Lambert Park on Sunday, knocking APIA out of the championship race, but not out of contention for the top four.

APIA has led a charmed life in recent weeks. Although the lustre that shone so brightly early in the year has worn off, APIA has managed to stay up with the leaders because every time it drops points, the others do too.

Footscray J.U.S.T.'s remarkable run continued meanwhile with a 2-0 victory over Marconi in Sydney. The absence of winger Zdravko Lujic due to injury proved a blessing in disguise for J.U.S.T., as his replacement, tall Paul Simic, scored both goals.

Wollongong is likely to use recruit Alan Waldron, 28, a midfielder, who arrived this week from Hong Kong where he played for Po Chia Pills.

Before that, he played in England for Bolton Wanderers and Blackpool.

Wollongong staged a fine recovery to beat West Adelaide Hellas 2-0 last Sunday, after having lost 1-5 to Sydney City in their Cup match the previous Monday, but they will be hard pressed to win at J.U.S.T.'s Schintler Reserve stronghold.

A place in the top four is the prize in the Greek derby in Adelaide.

West Adelaide Hellas holds fourth place at the moment, but Sydney Olympic is only a point behind. Can Peter Katholos, Jim Redfern and captain Andy Scott motivate the men around them to repeat the good form they showed in beating Heidelberg 3-2 last week?

Craig Johnston didn't do Newcastle much good against St George, and so it goes into the match against Brisbane Lions still poised precariously inside the relegation zone.

Lions dropped three places as a result of its loss to Brisbane City and could drop another two if they lose again. Col Bennett and Bobby Ferris will make sure that doesn't happen.

South Melbourne Hellas can jump a few positions, depending on results of teams above Hellas, if it beats Brisbane City in Brisbane.

But City's in a confident mood after last Sunday's win, and the return of Peter Tokesi has certainly stiffened the team's backbone.

Long one of the finest stoppers in Australia, Tokesi now completes one of the most impressive defences in the league. His henchmen are Jim Hermiston, Frank Liddell and Steve Perry.

I can't see Hellas winning this one, but a draw is a distinct possibility.

Preston Makedonia has won two in a row. It finally broke its away-game boodoo against Brisbane City two weeks ago, and will try to do so again at Bruce Stadium, against Canberra City.

But make no mistake — Makedonia will play it ultra-cautiously. Canberra will have territorial advantage but Makedonia will prove dangerous in breakaways.

Heidelberg's advance towards the top four was slowed by Olympic but the Bergers should regain momentum against erratic Marconi at home on Sunday.

And who knows, we may see a new face in the Heidelberg lineup.

Club president Sam Gouloupoulos said last week he was about to make a move for a top-class local midfielder.

Could it be Ken Murphy of Melbourne Croatia?

St George meanwhile, should maintain its challenge to leader Sydney City by beating Adelaide City at home.

Des Martin netted another two last Sunday, against Newcastle, and now has his sights set on the 1982 sharpshooter's crown. He's only one goal behind Charlie Egan of South Melbourne Hellas and John Kosmina of Sydney City Hakoah.

Weekend matches with likely winners in capitals:

What happened to Tony?

The first ever meeting of Philips Soccer League secretaries spent several hours discussing media relations by the clubs last weekend.

The emphasis on the subject was an obvious indicator of the vital importance of the matter, as well as of the obvious shortcomings which exist.

In view of this it was rather a pity that six member clubs were not in attendance, while the press was represented only by yours truly of "Soccer Action" and Ted Simmons of Australian Associated Press.

Simmons, who is also president of the Australian Soccer Press Association (NSW branch), gave a lengthy talk on the principles and mechanics of media relations, while I pointed out a number of areas where problems arise in day to day contacts.

These areas were: Communication, co-operation, the recurrent downgrading and non-recognition of the importance of the specialist soccer media, and a lack of comprehension by the clubs that newspapers, magazines and the electronic media outlets are business enterprises, not public relations agencies.

Marconi secretary George Keith deplored the parochial attitudes of the Sydney daily press, claiming it completely ignores the interstate clubs in the league, thus making promotion of a national competition that much harder.

The meeting, which took place at the Hakoah club in Sydney under the chairmanship of Sydney City secretary Mike Urakalo and also was attended by PSL secretary Paul Kemp, discussed a number of other subjects.

Those in attendance decided to send "strong letters" of displeasure to clubs which failed to send delegates, as well as to PSL vice-chairman Tony Labbozetta, who was expected to show up but failed to do so.

PSL chairman Sam Pappasavas apologised in advance for being unable to turn up due to a prior engagement.

Gavin helps to bury Bergers

Olympic 3 Heidelberg 2

Scorers: Olympic: Gavin 68th, Koussas 74th, Jennings 86th. H'borg: Paton 7th, Campbell 44th.

Crowd: 4432.
Referee: R. Lorenz.
OLYMPIC: Mjoler 7 - Coady 7, Rogers 7, Rowdon 7, Wilson 7, Phillips 6 (Koussas 32nd 7), Katholos 8, Raskopoulos 8 - Redfern 7, Gavin 7, Jennings 8.

HEIDELBERG: Oliver 6 - McMillan 7, Tansley 8, Yeendown 7, Yankus 7, Solomidis 6, Campbell 7, Valentin 7 - Paton 7, Cole 7, Bekiaris 7 (McLeod 75th).

There was a strong rumour around Olympic's camp during the week that some consideration was being given to transferring Tommy Gavin, but both the club and the fans can thank their lucky stars that commensurate prevailed.

It was quick-thinking Gavin who scored his side's opening goal which put it on the way back after Heidelberg had reached a seemingly unbeatable 2-0 lead at the break.

Then he produced the cross that led to the winning goal being scored just four minutes from the end.

The big Olympic band of supporters could not believe it and the ground erupted with a mighty roar as Jennings headed in the winner.

Midfielders Peter Katholos and Peter Raskopoulos had a big hand in Olympic's comeback, as did left-winger Jennings.

No wonder Heidelberg's

dressing room was silent after fulltime. The team had done enough to be virtually assured of victory until about the 60th minute.

At that stage it still was holding the halftime 2-0 lead and there was no sign of a change of fortunes except perhaps that Katholos had just blasted a good shot past the upright.

The visitors looked a ball of style when they started off, with Gary Cole, Jamie Paton and Jim Campbell running the shaky home defence ragged.

Olympic had no build up and no composure. Any balls that touched on to Campbell and the strikers with an easy job to tidy up.

In fact it was 28 minutes into the game before Olympic produced even one steady and confident strike at goal.

In the early stages Paton scored after Gary Cole got away along the inside right position. Finding no space he touched on to Campbell and finally Paton arrived to slip the ball past Gary Meier.

The rain poured down as Olympic struggled. Right-back Arthur McMillan covered Jennings so well that he could barely get a kick of the ball.

Right on halftime Mike Valentine got his cross to the far post. Paton got the best of a scramble with two defenders right in front, and ultimately Campbell was free to score his 10th goal of the season.

That spark of confidence which had been lacking for the past seven games suddenly returned and we saw the Olympic of early season fame.

Jennings crossed, Katholos gave a hand, and then Gavin blasted his shot high into Heidelberg's net.

In the 74th minute Jennings broke the defence thanks to a sliderule Raskopoulos pass and Mark Koussas, the replacement for Gary Phillips, took his tally to 11 goals in the PSL this year.

Jim Tansey emphasised to Jeff Oliver that he should come off his line to the high balls, just as McMillan had been doing earlier.

As soon as that incident was over Oliver was caught at his left near post as Gavin's cross found Jennings head at the far end. Olympic had broken its drought and Heidelberg's early lead had been transformed into a 2-3 loss.

Canberra angered by diabolical decision

Adel. City 1 Canberra 1

Goals: Purdie (Canberra) 62nd; Nyskohus (Ad City) 87th.

Crowd: 1,900
Ground: Olympic Sports Field

Referee: Bobby Kerr 5
ADELAIDE CITY: Ferguson 8 - Russell 7, Banfield 8, Miller 8, Nyskohus 8 - Manou 6, Marocchi 6, Malta 6, Nyskohus 7, Villani 6, Rankin (Shillabeer).

CANBERRA: Hoszowski 8 - Ambrosio 7, Milovanovic 8, T Byrne 8, Ontong 7, Christopoulos 8, G Byrne 8, Stone 6 (Purdie) - Brennan 7, Gibson 6, MacKinnon 6.

Canberra City will be perfectly justified in claiming it was robbed of a win.

Canberra was leading 1-0 with three minutes to go when referee Bobby Kerr awarded the local team a penalty kick.

The decision was diabolical. Striker Charlie Villani ran into a defender, fell and did his job for the afternoon.

John Nyskohus had the simple task of slotting home the ball to give his team a valuable point, but one which it hardly deserved.

Meno Toutsidis

Canberra swarmed around Kerr after he pointed to the spot and one or two of its players must have been close to being sent off, though their frustration was understandable in the situation.

Ironically, Canberra had taken the lead after 62 minutes with a penalty for a handball courtesy of Gary Marocchi.

Substitute Don Purdie took the kick and calmly dispatched the ball past Bobby Ferguson.

The match itself was a dull, scrappy affair, just the sort to keep people away from the game.

There was little in it to reflect upon in a positive manner.

Both sides have one excuse though. A heavy downpour accompanied the kick off and made good soccer almost impossible.

Adelaide City played without Brian Northcote (injured) and centre back Neville Flounders (suspended) and brought in youngsters Chris Miller and Philander, who replaced Peter Rankin in the second half.

Both sides had chances in the first half.

Gary Burne was denied a certain goal in the 36th minute, when Ferguson made a five save, turning a great shot around the post.

And three minutes later John Nyskohus slammed a powerful ground shot which Steve Hoszowski did well to stop.

Canberra had its problems in the second half when striker Tony Brennan broke down.

Brennan came off for treatment, but returned because Canberra had already replaced Ian Stone with Purdie.

Let's see Tokesi more often

Brisb. Lions 1 Brisb. City 3

Scorers: BC: Conner pen 30th, Tokesi 43rd, Bohan 54th, BL: Wright 20th.

Venue: Richards Stadium

Crowd: 4128

Cautions: Pezzano 87th

Referee: Bill Monteverde 7

LIONS: Lownds 7, McShimming 7, Bennett 7, Lewis 6, Niven 7, Attmore 6, Burns 7, Williamson 6, Sunderland 7, Wright 7, Ogden 6 (Millman 68th).

CITY: Pezzano 7, McVeigh 8, Hermiston 3, Liddell 9, Tokesi 9, Perry 7, Pimblett 8, Hamilton 7, Conner 7, Glockner 7 (Palinkas 78th), Bohan 8.

A surprise decision by Brisbane City coach Nereo Sattich to reinstate big stopper Peter Tokesi to the Philips League team proved to be the master stroke which gave City a 3-1 local derby win over Lions.

Sattich used Tokesi in the side which was beaten by Lions 0-1 in the Philips Cup the previous Monday but his selection and promotion from the club's State League side was prompted only by injuries and suspensions.

But it was obvious when the teams lined up that Sattich had kept Tokesi in the side to blot out Lions' guest signing Sunderland.

City had been expecting Sunderland to play in midfield, as he did in the Cup match, and at the kick-off Tokesi was in the middle of the park to mark him.

Soon after Tokesi was moved to left back to pick up Sunderland on the wing. Perry went to the right and McVeigh was pushed into on a header by Terry Butler.

At first it appeared the move would be a total failure, with Sunderland and Lions breaking through several times inside the first 10 minutes and actually scoring at the 20-minute mark after Paul Burns had doggedly won a tackle outside the penalty box and played it wide to Danny Wright who neatly slot it wide of City keeper Tony Pezzano.

But then the City defence

found its footing and proceeded to play a brilliant game with the three big defenders, Tokesi, Frank Liddell and Jim Hermiston, constantly changing positions to ensure Sunderland and Wright always were tightly marked, and Hermiston was always the free man.

Anything Lions pushed forward — and their style often revolves around playing long searching, or sometimes hopeful long balls — was tidily dealt with by the experienced trio.

In fact after the early onslaught Sunderland broke through on only two occasions, once in the 28th minute when he skillfully beat Liddell and played a ball which rolled across the goalmouth and in the 33rd minute when he was unlucky not to get a penalty when he beat Tokesi and Liddell but was somewhat restrained from shooting when Hermiston managed to get his arm interlocked with Sunderland's.

It was from a penalty that City equalised. With referee Bill Monteverde gave the spot kick for obstruction on Bevan Bohan. Many claimed it was a harsh decision as Bohan was still standing after the incident and the ball was still within his reach but it would be wrong to be too critical of Monteverde's decision as Bohan was swamped by two Lions defenders on either side.

Willie Conner, whose finishing has been far from perfect in recent weeks, was given the kick and can count himself lucky it went in. He hit it virtually straight and Lownds dived right over the top.

It was the first of a number of mistakes Lownds was to make during the match, the most disastrous early in the second half when he completely missed punching a Hermiston cross to allow Bevan Bohan to volley into an open goal from only two metres.

This goal, added to the one City got two minutes before halftime when Tokesi headed home a cross from Pimblett, after a good corner kick set-piece with McVeigh, clinched the game for City and for the last 35 minutes the home side was never in it.

Bohan had a header cleared off the line and another shot well saved by Lownds while Lions' only chances of getting back into the game were a Williamson shot yards over the crossbar and Burns and Bobby Ferris shots which City keeper Tony Pezzano was untroubled to take.

Lions coach Joe Gilroy, obviously upset that his side had lost on a day the club celebrated its 25th anniversary, launched a scathing attack on some members of his squad after the game.

"There are three or four players who must seriously question their ability to play at this level. We were leading 1-0 in a local derby and lost. We threw it away.

"What we needed was guts and determination and it was sadly lacking," Gilroy said.

Whether any of the players will be axed, though, is another question. Lions have sold all the experienced players in their State League side, players like Mark McNaughton, Jim McLean and Graham Wilson, and if he made changes, Gilroy would have to gamble on youngsters like Roddy Vasquez, Clarke Anderson or recall lanky forward Calvin Daut who has scored six goals in as many weeks in the reserve side.

Johnston roughed up

St. George 3 Newcastle 0

ST GEORGE: Fraser 7, Skeen 7, Terry 7, Koritar 7, Ratcliffe 7, M. O'Shea 8, Slater 8, Stone 8, Wilkinson 7, J. O'Shea 7, Marton 8.

NEWCASTLE: Dando 7, Curran 7, H. Treadwell 7, Snodden 6, Mason 8, Dringwater 7, Robertson 7, Lowe 7, Hamilton, Stamp 6, Johnston 8.

Referee: Ken Small.
Crowd: 4,435.

Substitutes: St. George - Barton (for Koritar 80th), Newcastle - Jones (for Lowe 75th).

Scorers: Marton 69th, 84th, Wilkinson 89th.

Liverpool star Craig Johnston was the centre of attention in more ways than one at St George Stadium when the Frank Arok-trained squad scored a clear-cut 3-0 win over Newcastle.

Johnston, despite earlier assurances that he would be allowed to play his natural game, was floored twice within the first two minutes from heavy tackles and was shadowed by at least two defenders for the rest of the game.

St George won the match because it snapped up and scored from the opportunities that were presented, whereas Newcastle rarely was on target.

Johnston, who appears to be overworked on his promotional tour, was distressed after the match for missing what he thought were three good chances to score.

But he still was a class above his team-mates, at least one move ahead of all the time, forcing him often to wait while the other players either moved into position or passed the ball.

St George trapped Newcastle frequently during the match with off-side tactics, and physically shut down the Newcastle strikers when they broke loose.

Evergreen striker Dez Marton, with his tremendous ball skill, once more proved the destroyer of visiting teams; scoring twice in the second half, with Paul Wilkinson grabbing the third.

Marton had the ball in the back of the net in the 26th minute of the first half, but referee Ken Small disallowed the goal.

Johnston had two reasonable chances in the second half, one a 30 metre free kick which just whistled over the cross bar.

But in blaming himself for the loss, he ignored the fact that his team-mates were off-target, especially winger Alf Stamp, whose delaying tactics with the ball probably cost Newcastle a couple of goals.

A defensive error led to the first goal, when John Sneddon missed a Wilkinson cross and Marton slid the ball into the net.

Marton was clear in the 84th minute when Mike O'Shea slung a long pass down the middle and the veteran overran the ball, regained control, and slipped it past Phil Dando.

Wilkinson, who has made the scoresheet only a few times this season, was on hand for the third when a Robbie Slater shot rebounded from Dando, leaving Wilkinson with a simple tap-in.

Newcastle coach Ken Kaiser would not comment on the attention paid to Johnston, except to say: "It's a man's game, and you have to expect tight marking, but we lost because we didn't take our chances, not because Craig was heavily marked."

That may be true, but if it had been just one man marking Johnston, the result, although probably still going the way of St George, would have been far more entertaining for the spectators, especially the hundreds of children present to see the Australian star.

Makedonia 2 APIA 0

Scorers: Lucchesi 12th, Orlerton pen 89th.

Venue: Connor Reserve.

Crowd: about 1800

Referee: Evan Venios 8.

Cautions: Todorovski (Mak).

PRESTON-MAKEDONIA: Potter 8 - Petrovski 7, Jones 7, Todorovski 7, Little 8.

Flavell 8, Orlerton 7, Miranda 7 - Ward 8, Lucchesi 8, Brown 7.

APIA-LEICHHARDT: Parkes 7 - Carter 8, McAusland 8, Hughes (injured, sub. Kilkelly 6, 25th), Skellern 8 - Bradley 8, McGreen 9, Butler 7 - Soper 7, Burrows 7, Giampolo 7.

Makedonia moved to within two points of the Philips League top four with this victory.

APIA which has won very few games in Melbourne since it entered the PSL, dropped from second to third position as a result.

Makedonia took the lead through Claude Lucchesi in the 12th minute, and the score remained 1-0 until seconds from the end when referee Evan Venios awarded a penalty for handball against Tom Kilkelly.

Coach Peter Orlerton scored from the spot.

But Makedonia had enough chances to win by at least four goals.

Gary Ward hit the post with a header and Doug Brown slammed a free kick against the cross bar.

Lucchesi's goal came after APIA goalkeeper Bobby Parkes had blocked a powerful

drive by Gordon Flavell, Makedonia's best player.

Makedonia goalkeeper Peter Potter preserved the lead by making a spectacular one-handed save of a header by Sebastian Giampolo.

Lucchesi should have scored again when he dribbled around Parkes, but lost the run of the ball, enabling Paul Carter to clear.

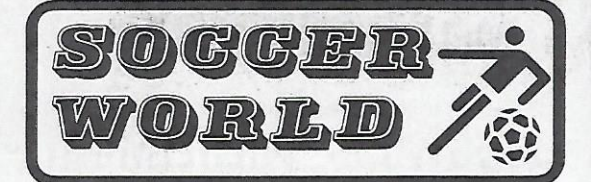

APIA centre back Alan Hughes was injured and replaced by Kilkelly in the 25th minute.

Makedonia's top-scorer Doug Brown became more active after half-time, and apart from hitting the crossbar, was unlucky with a powerful shot in the 65th minute.

Potter saved Makedonia again by coming off his line quickly to smother John Bradley, who was running in on a header by Terry Butler.

Jim McGreen controlled the midfield for APIA in the second half but it was Makedonia that came close to scoring again when Lucchesi was foiled by Parkes' one-handed save.

Orlerton scored from the penalty shot only seconds from the end after Lucchesi had failed to convert yet another good chance, this one set up by Brown.

Clarke 'blinded', in nips Egan

SM-Hellas 2 Sydney City 2

Scores: 1-0 Buljevic 61m,
1-1 Spanos 63m, 1-2 Borges,
2-2 Egan 78m.

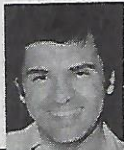

Referee: J. Johnston 5
Caution: Watson, Kosmina HELLAS: Tsagaris 8, Bennett 7, Blair 7, Xanthopoulos

7, Nikolaides 8, Egan 8, Halford 7, Davidson 7 (Stevenson 73m), Campbell 7, Rogers 7, Buljevic 8.

SYDNEY CITY: Clarke 7, Mullen 7, O'Connor 7, Robertson 7, Cent 8, Spanos 7
(Patikas 82m), Borges 7,
Barnes 7, Watson 7, Kosmina
8, Murray 8.

It would have been a gross injustice if Hellas came out of this match empty handed but in the end the home side had to rely on a ray of blinding sunlight to get a point in a match in which it gave as good as it got and again highlighted that there is little between the league leaders and the sides in the lower half of the table.

The sinking sun shone straight into keeper Todd Clarke's eyes and he admitted

Peter Desira

after the match that he lost sight of the ball although he felt it hitting his hand in the move which brought the equaliser for Hellas 12 minutes from the end.

Striker Charlie Egan, with his back to the sun got a clearer view and was in like lightning to tap the rebound in after Clarke unknowingly had tapped the ball onto the crossbar.

To give the goal an even more bizarre angle, it was Kevin Mullen who had started the confusion as he had wildly mis-kicked his attempted clearance backwards in trying to stop George Campbell's shot from outside the area.

In a way Mullen also contributed towards the best support Hellas has had for many weeks as he had earlier got the crowd's back up with a gesticulating wave of the arms.

From then on he was booed
everytime he touched the ball and the home supporters really got behind their team in their urge for revenge.

It was uncharacteristic of the seasoned fullback and Mullen would do well to have a chat with Alan Evans next time the two meet as "Evo"
underwent similar treatment from the touchy Hellas supporters some two years ago and even lost his place in the side for a match as a result of his action.

Apart from Mullen, Tasmanian referee Jack Johnston also came in for his share of heckling because of a complete disregard for the advantage rule as well as one or two inexplicable decisions.

Apparently Sydney City is paying the airfare to get a neutral referee to all its away matches but in the end Johnston showed little gratitude as the only two players he booked were both from Sydney City.

Hellas, minus Tommy Docherty for the game, brought in Branko Buljevic for the suspended Jim Shirra and started in 4-4-2 formation with Buljevic and Rogers the front runners.

The move gave George Campbell and Charlie Egan, the two flank midfielders
plenty of room, but it wasn't until Egan switched with Rogers that South added a bit of venom to its attack.

Sydney City brought in Joe Watson for David Mitchell (out with a corked thigh) but it was John Kosmina and Willie Murray who caused most of the damage up front.

The pair and John Spanos brought the best out of Lou Tsagaris with a number of shots and former regular,
Peter Laumets, sitting in the stand, must have wondered if he'll be able to regain his spot between the sticks at all this season if his pupil keeps up this form.

The first three goals of the game came in a five minute spell midway through the second half.

Buljevic opened the score in the 61st minute rising superbly

Lou Tsagaris

at the far post to head in Gerry Bennett's right wing cross.

But the lead lasted only two minutes when Bennett was caught too far back putting both Nelio Borges and John Spanos inside and free to dash into the Hellas area before Spanos slammed away the equaliser.

And with Hellas still reeling from the shock Sydney city struck again in the 65th minute this time with Borges as the finisher after Murray had made the telling pass.

Hellas could have snatched the winner four minutes from the end when Egan reached a back pass from Jim Cant before Clarke then clipped over the keeper to the far post but Buljevic headed over from close range.

Wollongong 2 West Adel 0

Venue: Wollongong Show-

Referee: Davies 6
The Wollongong Wolves' comfortable 2-0 win over a negative West Adelaide side was watched by only 1500 fans
— the club's lowest gate of the season.

Club chairman Laurie Kelly asked after the match: What else must we do to attract the fans?

Indeed, the Wolves, after a miserable start in the championship, have picked themselves up and managed a number of brilliant displays against the top sides.

But the club is struggling to attract the crowds that patronised its home games last year.

And the Wolves' performance against WA-Hellas deserved a much more encouraging audience.

With striker Phil O'Connor teasing and tormenting fullback Tom Totsikas for the whole afternoon and with Arno Bertogne again in outstanding form in defence, the Wolves appeared set for a victory from the very start.

The Wolves dominated the whole first half but had to wait till the 69th minute to open the scoring.

But it was a goal worth waiting for. O'Connor swept past Totsikas in his characteristic style and floated over a far post centre from the right which was met by midfielder Peter Tredinnick who fired in a superb first-timer.

Goalkeeper Frank Boetel, making his senior debut in the PSL, often came to the rescue of his shaky teammates in defence.

Early in the first half he

Philip Micallef

tipped a low shot from O'Connor to corner after the former Socceroo had beaten three defenders.

West Adelaide's first chance came after 58 minutes when Tim Brown ran through a distracted defence but goalkeeper Jim Preston came out to clear.

When it appeared WA-Hellas would take the game to Wolves, the home side took the lead and at that point the match was won and lost.

Soon afterwards Boetel made the save of the day by smothering a full-blooded shot by John Fleming.

But Boetel could do nothing to save the visitors four minutes from time.

West Adelaide lost possession in a free kick action and Tredinnick was quick to send O'Connor away on the left.

The winger promptly transferred the ball to Cotton who first rounded Totsikas and then coolly beat Boetel with a well-placed shot.

Scores: Simic 5m, 72m.

In one of the worst games played in front of their home crowd Marconi lost 2-0 to a very disciplined and well-organised Footscray JUST.

The home side badly missed the services of injured striker Mark Jankovics up front, and the aerial dominance of tough battling Steve Calderon at the back.

Tony Henderson, in the dual role of stopper and half back, only appeared intermittently in midfield while Roberto Vieri had a fair game but seemed to be well on his own in attempting to dictate play.

His accurate passing and distribution were rarely taken advantage of by the Marconi forwards.

Mendo Ristovski and Zoran Ilioski master-minded their team's success.

They were brilliantly supported by left back Igor Hazabent and centre forward Paul Simic, scorer of both goals.

To say JUST deserved to win is an understatement, for towards the end of the game, Ilioski at the 77th minute and Ristovski at the 80th minute missed two sitters.

The first goal came in the 8th minute when Kondarios lobbed a good ball to an unmarked Simic who chested it down and shot under the body of a bewildered Allan Maher.

The second goal was in the 72nd minute with Marconi pushing forward and looking for the equaliser.

Ilioski found Ristovski running freely on the left flank. The Footscray left winger promptly crossed the ball to Simic in the box who shook off a Henderson tackle and shot past Maher.

Marconi had a good chance in the 37th minute when Vieri lobbed the ball over Kondarios' head and sent Hunter on his way, but a few metres into the box, he lost the ball in a tackle by O'Reilly.

Marconi had another chance in the 57th minute when McCulloch invited Henderson to shoot. The shot hit the upper part of the crossbar and bounced out of play.

JUST did not play defensively although it was tight at the back, and always was looking for scoring opportunities.

Rainey joins Croydon Rooney to follow?

Mike Rainey

Jim Rooney

Croydon signed Mike Rainey from Preston Makedonia on Monday and was negotiating with Heidelberg for the signature of former soccer captain Jimmy Rooney as we went to press.

Rainey came to Australia in the late 1970's from Scottish club Clydebank. He joined Hakoah (now Hellas-Hakoah) where he played for two seasons before signing for Makedonia.

Croydon paid about $4,000 for the services of the versatile Rainey and he'll be rushed straight into the starting line-up for Sunday's clash at Croydon Park against free scoring Juventus.

God knows what the score in this match will be. The biggest difference between these sides is that Croydon has a defence. Honestly you had to see Juventus and George Cross to believe some of the kamikaze stuff that went on at the back last weekend.

Actually it was a delight to watch. It made for great entertainment and if Croydon can get that careful feeling in defence then Sunday's game could be a high scoring bonanza.

George Cross and Hellas-Hakoah is another game which could provide fans with a goal feast. All eyes will focus on rival strikers, Duncan Cummings of Hellas-Hakoah and Bobby Toal of George Cross at Chaplin Reserve on Sunday.

Hellas-Hakoah will be well advised not to allow Dave Rieghly to stroll forward from deep into dangerous spaces up front. The George Cross midfielder is his club's leading league scorer this season and his ability to ghost into positions inside the opposition's penalty area represents a big threat to the visitors.

Polonia and Sunshine are disappointing of late. Polonia has lost its last two games while at the same time Sunshine during the pre-season Buffalo Cup competition seems to have disappeared as the club strives in vain to solve its lack of fire power in attack. These neighbors clash at

SUNDAY

George Cross v Hellas-Hakoah at Chaplin Reserve, 3 pm.

Croydon v Juventus at Croydon Park, 3 pm.

Doveton v Frankston at Waratah Reserve, 3 pm.

Ajax v Albion Rovers at Green Gully Reserve, 3 pm.

Northcote v Morwell Falcons at John Cain Reserve, 3 pm.

Croatia v Ringwood Wilhelmnia at Olympic Park, 3 pm.

Polonia v Sunshine at Raleigh Reserve, 3 pm.

Raleigh Reserve on Sunday in a game vital to the top four aspirations of both outfits.

Croatia should beat improving Ringwood Wilhelmnia at Olympic Park on Sunday but there won't be much between these sides.

Wilhelmnia, with Joe Carroll and Ken Stewart in great touch in attack and Joe Tront and Dave Gibson getting a lot of the ball in midfield where their disposal and vision is best exhibited, will surprise second placed Croatia with its competitive ability.

The gap between Croatia and Wilhelmnia has narrowed greatly since last year but Croatia still has a touch too much class in players like Ken Murphy, Keith Adams, Steve Kokoska and Dave Brogan.

Former Northern Irish striker Colin McCurdy will lead Northcote's forward line against Morwell Falcons at John Cain Reserve on Sunday.

The solidly built striker will enable Northcote coach Billy Millen to use George Bozakis in midfield as there is an injury cloud hanging over the head of former Hellas midfielder Sammy Wright, signed by Northcote earlier this year.

And Linfield midfielder David Nixon is due any day. Although Millen gradually is assembling a good squad he may not be too pleased on Sunday when Morwell Falcons take the points.

The loser of Sunday's Waratah Reserve clash between home team Doveton and visitor Frankston city will become odds on favorite for relegation.

If Ajax can't beat Albion Rovers at Green Gully Reserve on Sunday it doesn't deserve to win the league.

Gramsbergen and Ellis in the wars

SUNSHINE 0 CROATIA 2 (Brogan, Latif)

SUNSHINE: Masseni 7 - Mussel 6, Lowe 6, Gramsbergen 6 (Inj Taylor 55th G), McRobert 7 - Watson 6, Bain 7, McNally 6, Peto 5 (D), Nelson 80th, Ellis 6, R. Nelson 5.

CROATIA: Blasby 7 - Curcio 6, Adams 6, Kokoska 7, Bilevar 6 - Radinovic 6, Antolovic 7, Murphy 7 - Latif 6, Brogan 7, Gajovic 7.

Rob Gramsbergen and Steve Ellis both needed stitches inserted in head wounds after tussling with the same Croatia player.

Gramsbergen received an alleged elbow in the face which gave him a nasty gash near his eye. He had to be replaced 10 minutes into the second half and taken to hospital. Ellis, who had been playing as a target man up front, dropped back into his customary stopper's role and received similar treatment. Sunshine officials weren't prepared to name the Croatia player involved.

They were however prepared to say that Croatia's first goal looked offside. Ossie Latif, Croatia's best player, looked to be at least two metres offside when he broke clear in the 65th minute. He tried to slot the ball past Dennis Masseni who did well to parry but Dave Brogan was following up and neatly tucked the rebound home.

Ten minutes later it was all over. Latif pounced on a scramble inside the Shiners' area and hammered a low drive in from about six metres.

THE PITS!

ALBION ROVERS 1 (A. McMillan) DOVETON 0

ALBION: Leacock 7 - Cutler 7, Munro 6 (Spiteri H.T. G), Crony 6, Nasalt 6 - Murphy 6, Rees 6, A. McMillan 6 - Ferrie 6, S. McMillan 6, Coyle 6.

DOVETON: Ivonoff 6 - Hulsiz 6, Thurlow 7, Merrick 7, K. Middlemass 8 - McIvor 6, Andrews 6, Train 7, Spinks 7, Webster 7, Waterhouse 6.

This was a horrible game played with a terrible pitch before a pitifully poor crowd. Andy McMillan's volley from the edge of the Doveton area in the 65th minute separated the sides.

Earlier in the season Albion player-coach Frank Munro said that the Frankston-Albion game was the worst match he'd seen. He changed his mind last Saturday.

Ashton dies

Albion Rovers' masseur Mr Ken Ashton, passed away on Sunday.

"Soccer Action" has been besieged with phone calls from Mr Ashton's many friends throughout the soccer community. We join with them in expressing our sincere condolences to his family.

Hogben, Morrey sparkle

MORWELL FALCONS 0 GREEN GULLY AJAX 2 (MacLeod pen, Paul Lewis)

FALCONS: Whiteside 8 - Smart 5 (Bond 75th), Higham 7, Irvine 7, Noels 6 - Bingham 6, Daniels 6, O'Callaghan 5 - Mitten 5, McCune 5, T. van Baar 5.

AJAX: Denys 7 - Peter Lewis 5, Gardiner 5, Connell 5, Hogben 9 - Bennett 7, Vassallo 7, Williams 7 - Morrey 6, Macleod 7, Paul Lewis 7.

Deciding to go to Morwell on Friday, match eve, and the selection of Bill Morrey and David Hogben probably were two of the most important factors in the league leader's victory in the Latrobe Valley.

After an early night on Friday and a light breakfast on Saturday morning the Ajax squad had a brief training session and went into Saturday afternoon's match sharp and keyed up. Morrey and Hogben probably didn't expect to win a place in the starting line-up. Hogben's been under suspension while Morrey has been on the bench recently after returning from northern NSW.

Both played well with young Hogben doing a fine job of containing Noel Mitten and also getting forward and playing his part in Ajax's opening goal.

Hogben took off on the overlap in the 14th minute and charged into the Falcons area. His pursuer, Tony van Baar, was late with a tackle and pulled Hogben down. Big Gus Macleod took the resultant penalty and made no mistake.

In the second half Ajax was content to keep things tight at the back and not throw away its lead. Former Swindown Town striker John Bond replaced Grant Smart with about 15 minutes to go.

Falcons pushed forward, leaving one-on-one situations at the back. Ajax started to play the early ball and from one such pass, from sweeper John Gardiner, Paul Lewis broke clear and slotted home Ajax's killer goal.

Rooney off, Cummings tops

POLO니아 2 (Marshall, Mila) HELLAS-HAKOAH 4 (Cummings 3, Gray).

POLO니아: Ostrowsky 5 - Klein 5, A. Czapiuk 6, Mila 6, Pichner 5 - Lipiarski 6, P. Czapiuk 6, Przybyla 4 - Laskowski 4, Krysinski 4, Marshall 5.

HELLAS-HAKOAH: Porree 7 - Davidson 7, Kalitidis 7, Hannah 8, Rooney 7 (sent off 75th), Bazanowski 7, Owen 7, Wilson 7, Gray 8 - Abraham 6, Cummings 8.

A second half hat-trick from Hellas-Hakoah striker Duncan Cummings and the sending off of defender Sean Rooney highlighted a thrilling six goal clash at Raleigh Reserve.

Home side Polonia led 1-0 at the break and was confident of victory. Big Alex Marshall put Polonia ahead after 25 minutes when he ran through onto Peter Czapiuk's pass, rounded goalkeeper Mark Perree and stroked the ball into the empty goal.

Within five minutes of the second half Hellas-Hakoah had taken the lead. It first sent Polonia tottering in the 48th minute and 90 seconds later led 2-1.

Ametco Travel is the sponsor of our prestigious State League Player of the Year award.

Three votes are awarded to the best player of each club in every State League game. These votes are awarded on the basis of "Soccer Action" rating and the judgement of the opposition coach. This voting format was arrived at by the State League management committee.

The best players from last weekend's games were:

Polonia hit back through sweeper Stefan Mila whose first time low shot from the edge of the area in the 52nd minute tied the scores.

Hellas-Hakoah hit the front again in the 62nd minute and a crashing 20 metre drive from Cummings in the 80th minute settled the issue.

Hellas-Hakoah winger Peter Abraham was the man of the match. The speedy winger cut Polonia's defence to shreds in the second half in particular. He laid on two goals and his skill and sharpness were constant thorns in Polonia's side.

It's getting closer

Ringwood Wilhelmnia v Northcote: Stewart (RW), Wright (N).

Morwell Falcons v Ajax: Whiteside (MF), Hogben (A).

Juventus v George Cross: Zinni (A), Nelson (C).

Albion Rovers v Doveton: Crony (AR), K. Middlemass (D).

Frankston v Croydon: Buchanan (F), Nelson (C).

Sunshine v Croatia: Bain (S), Latif (C).

Polonia v Hellas-Hakoah: Mila (P), Abraham (H).

Joe Talpieri and Northcote's George Bozakis still lead with 15 votes each but are five players poised just three votes behind: Paul Drinocky, Graham Tutill (Frankston), George Hannab (Hellas-Hakoah), Bill Whiteside (Falcons) and Stefan Mila (Polonia).

Mitchell's mistakes let Croydon in

FRANKSTON CITY 1 (Reader) CROYDON 3 (Nolan 2, P. Loughnane)

FRANKSTON: Petersen 6 - Pye 7, Drinocky 7, Tutill 6, Mitchell 5 - Reader 6 (Campbell 70th), C. Whiteside 6, Cooke 5, Gonsalves 6 (Inj. Burroughs 89th) - Buchanan 8, Stewart 6.

CROYDON: Edwards 7 - Brown 7, McCombe 8, Haupt 7, Hobson 7 - Corke 7, Dobson 8, Nolan 8 - P. Loughnane 7, Tkachuk 7, Lia 6.

Two defensive blunders from left back Colin Mitchell enabled Croydon to score three goals, its highest league total in any match this season and its first game in 1982 under coach Bill McArthur.

McArthur left Croydon as coach last year and was hired by Melbourne Croatia in December. About two weeks ago Croatia sacked him and last week he replaced Ken Kontra as coach of Croydon.

Frankston City won first use of near gale force winds at Centenary Park but at the break had only one goal to show for its efforts. It was a superb move though which led to Frankston's 27th minute goal. Carlos Gonsalves left two opponents standing down the left and played the ball forward to Cliff Whiteside whose first time flick inside set-up young Robbie Reader. He made no mistake by simply sidefooting the ball past the helpless Micky Edwards.

About 10 minutes into the second half scores were tied. Mitchell completely miskicked the ball while attempting to take a free kick. The ball was quickly played into the Frankston area and fell for Peter Loughnane who let fly with a volley from the right side of the box and reduced the lead.

Four minutes later Croydon was in front. Frank Petersen wasn't prepared for Graham Tutill's passback and the ball went out for a corner. Steve McCombe was at the back post to head the corner-kick back across goal and Terry Nolan headed in.

With just seven minutes remaining Mitchell played the ball square but Croydon intercepted. The ball was quickly played in behind the Frankston defence and Nolan was through. The former Makedonia midfielder didn't shoot cleanly but Petersen made a mess of his attempt to save, the ball bouncing over his body and into goal.

Frankston had chances late in the game. Billy Buchanan broke clear but shot wide then Paul Drinocky headed straight at Edwards from Paul Cooke's corner.

Zinni wins it for Juve

JUVENTUS 4 (Zinni 2, Incantalupo, P. Bannon) GEORGE CROSS 3 (Rigby 2, Toal).

JUVENTUS: Fantoma 7 — V. Bannon 7, P. Bannon 7, Donaldson 7, Hird 7, Cunningham 7, Cavallari 7 (Zinni H.T. 8), Swinscoe 7 — Nelson 6, McGrory 6, Incantalupo 7.

GEORGE CROSS: Tachiris 6 — Gambin (inj. Wilkinson 15th 6), Morgan 6, Lawson 7, Pisanis 5 — Scerri 7, Rigby 7, McCann 6 — Toal 8, Gilder 6, Mizzi 5.

Seven goals, two disallowed goals, a penalty miss by Tiziano Cavallari and a match winning second half from half time substitute Andrew Zinni highlighted the most exciting State League game I've seen in three years.

Juventus and George Cross thrilled the crowd in a sea-sawing nail biting clash with the result in doubt right up until referee Jim Fearn signalled full time.

Juventus opened up as if it wanted to kill off the Cross inside the first 20 minutes. It should have!

With two minutes gone George Cross left back Ray Pisanis played a terrible square pass which "sold" centre half Damien Morgan. The ball was played forward first time to Pabie Incantalupo who tucked it away with ease from six metres out.

Dave Rigby should have levelled with a point blank header in the 14th minute but he didn't put it well enough of Alex Fantoma who dived and held the ball cleanly.

Then Incantalupo sent over a curling corner to the near post in the 16th minute. "Rocky" Tachiris came out, fumbled and Paddy Bannon slid down to hammer in the loose ball from about five metres.

Four minutes later Referee Fearn ruled that the advancing Tachiris had dragged down Incantalupo. Cavallari, in his first senior game for Juventus this year, took the penalty but didn't get enough angle on it as Tachiris was down well to save.

George Cross took me and the Juventus back four completely by surprise. Within 16 minutes of Cavallari's penalty miss it had wiped out its deficit and scored a third goal to lead 3-2!

This was real "Roy of the Rovers" stuff. I kept shaking my head in disbelief as first one side then the other carved the opposing defence apart and created numerous chances, certainly enough to make the score about 16-14 if every chance was taken.

Bobby Toal made it 2-1 with a spectacular goal from a tight angle on the right. He chested the ball down, swivelled round and hammered a swerving volley into the far corner.

Then Rigby equalised with a low shot from about 10 metres out and while every Italian in the crowd was looking for heart tablets Rigby's diving header made it 3-2. This probably was the goal of the match.

Billy Wilkinson had come on as a 15th minute replacement for injured Paul Gambin and took a free kick about 15 metres outside the Juventus area. He chipped the ball into the box to Carl Gilder who headed across to the right side of the area. Steve Scerri crossed to the near post and Rigby, diving forward, glanced the ball into the far corner.

Cavallari didn't appear after the interval. In his place coach Tony Boggi fielded 17 year old Andrew Zinni who played up front with Jim Nelson dropping deep into a right side midfield role and Stuart Cunningham taking over Cavallari's central midfield duties.

Zinni was just the spark the black and whites needed. His sharpness and ability to take on defenders caused George Cross no end of bother.

Scores were level after about seven minutes of this half. The Cross defence couldn't clear and young Zinni wheeled around and rifled a low left foot drive into the far corner from just inside the box.

Then Juve scored two goals within a minute but both were disallowed, the first for offside and the second goal for pushing the ball from Joe McGrory who had headed the ball in.

Zinni struck the telling blow in the 65th minute. He turned and twisted his way past three defenders then struck the ball low past the diving Tachiris, squeezing it inside the near post from about 12 metres. It was a superb solo effort, worthy of the winning goal in such a heart stopping game.

Juventus certainly had the better of the second half. George Cross lost a bit of its discipline and composure at the back under stress in the second stanza.

Broken leg may end Presilski's career

The career of Altona Gate Vardar veteran Cele Presilski could have ended at Frankston Pines on Saturday when the former Makedonia star broke his leg in the 89th minute.

It was a tragic finale to a fine 1-0 away win by Vardar which now lies in sixth spot in First Division.

Presilski has played for the Metropolitan League representative team during a long and distinguished career involving stints with Makedonia, Keilor City and Vardar.

The home side battled back with House and Lesbirel prominent, but the Hillmen's back four held firm and Morgan was scarcely troubled, then two goals in two minutes by the visitors virtually set the seal on this game before the first half hour had expired.

In the 24th minute an incisive move down the left flank between Ramos and Patterson found Verechia unmarked in front of goal who gave Kennedy no chance, to record his twelfth goal of the season.

A minute later it was the indomitable Verechia again. Intercepting a poor back pass from Robertson, he dragged the ball past Kennedy before presenting Taylor with the easiest of chances in front of an empty goal.

Knox were never to recover from this double fatality, and the Hillmen hammered another nail into the coffin just before halftime when Ramos, Taylor, and Verechia again sliced through the home defence and Patterson finished off the move to put the Hillmen four ahead at the interval.

Bissinger replaced Robertson for the start of the second half, and with the wind at their back the home side gained considerably more territorial advantage than they had enjoyed during the first period. But the visitors defended well and apart from one save at full stretch from McNeill, Morgan had little to do.

In the 55th minute the visitors scored again. Verechia carried the ball 40 metres from inside his own half staving off determined challenges from Smith and Thomson before feeding Taylor, who turned Allison inside out on the edge of the area, before firing a left foot drive into the top left hand corner of the net from 15 metres.

It was all Box Hill now, and when Patterson rifled home a left foot drive from an oblique angle in the 77th minute, it looked as if the visitors were going to record double figures. But unaccountably for the remaining few minutes the Hillmen went to sleep, and first Bissinger in the 81st minute and then Lesbirel four minutes later, scored what could only be consolation goals for the home side.

count on the 11th minute. Patterson had been hammered to the ground wide on the right touchline by Smith, who had made little or no pretence of going for the ball at all. Toime's resulting free kick found the blonde Box Hill striker rising high above the Knox defence to nod the ball into the corner of the net.

Kew City, fielding several reserves due to the suspension of Danny McCluskey and Frank Macleod, battled hard to keep Richmond at bay. Two superb saves from Michael Lukac kept the score-sheet blank. The first was from a fine effort in the 19th minute by Routos and eight minutes later Skinner was denied by Lukac after a Beer corner.

With four minutes remaining in this fairly dull contest substitute Mike Lynn almost stole both points for Kew City but his diving header at the near post flashed fractionally wide.

The speed of Richmond's substitute, flying winger Bruce Young, proved decisive. In the 88th minute he out-paced injured David Webb and slotted the ball in off the foot of the far post.

minutes later Skinner was denied by Lukac after a Beer corner.

With four minutes remaining in this fairly dull contest substitute Mike Lynn almost stole both points for Kew City but his diving header at the near post flashed fractionally wide.

The speed of Richmond's substitute, flying winger Bruce Young, proved decisive. In the 88th minute he out-paced injured David Webb and slotted the ball in off the foot of the far post.

Stewart scores three, Sahinidis fluffs penalty

RINGWOOD WILHELMINA 4 (Stewart 3, Hoyland) NORTHCOTE 0

WILHELMINA: Barclay 8 — Pasmann 7, de Graaf 7 (Luyten 75th), O'Reilly 6, Vermeers 7 — Brooks 7 (Thom 75th), Tront 6, Gibson 8 — Hoyland 7, Carroll 8, Sturt 7.

NORTHCOTE: Kardamitis 6 — Petrakos 5, Nelson 6, Provan 5, Koullikas 7 — Lutton 7, Wright 1 (inj. Tzetzos 61st), Falouts 5 — Klevidis 6 (Sahinidis H.T. 5), Brackis 5, Constantinou 5.

A hat trick in the first 45 minutes from little Wilhelmina winger Ken Stewart and a second half penalty miss by Jim Sahinidis highlighted Ringwood Wilhelmina's 4-0 drubbing of Northcote at Jubilee Park on Sunday.

The game was only four minutes old when Dave Gibson's through ball sent Stewart into the clear. The clever little winger slammed the ball into the top far corner of goal from just inside the area. A stunning goal and just the sort of start the home side was looking for.

It was Stewart again who scored in the 16th minute. Joe Carroll played a one-two with Joe Tront then flicked the ball inside and Stewart tucked it away with a low shot from 12 metres out.

Wilhelmina's third goal for the half started with Tront who had come deep to the left spot. The former Victorian midfielder beat an opponent then passed to Carroll who turned well and crossed into the area. Angelo Petrakos tried to chest down but the ball bounced clear to Stewart who slotted it past the helpless Spiro Kardamitis.

Northcote had the chance in the second half to make it 3-1 but half time substitute Jim Sahinidis fluffed his penalty try over the bar.

The game was put well and truly out of the visitors' reach in the 65th minute when Carroll's cross from the left found Dave Hoyland whose half volley from close in gave Kardamitis no chance.

Jean Durand of Keysborough

FAWKNER 3 (Tuffield 2, Schipano) ALTONA CITY 0

FAWKNER: Tzini, Petrov, Schipano, Gooney, Polita (Fantoma half time), C. Sabidussi, B. Sabidussi, Malmoud, Baskin, Tuffield (inj. sub. Puri 70th), Cuccia.

Fawkner's best: Gooney, B. Sabidussi, Tuffield.

Andy Boxas, bought from Heidelberg-Alexander for $4750, made his First Division debut in this victory which kept Fawkner ahead of Box Hill at the top of the ladder.

Joe Piccione of Marconi arrives from Sydney this week and will see a specialist about his back complaint before Fawkner signs him on loan.

KEY CITY 0 RICHMOND 1 (Young)

KEY CITY: Lukac 8, Ogden 7, Lyness 6, Webb 7, Stewart 9, Parsons 7, McCarthy 6, Kennan 6 (Lynn 70th), Drougdis 6, Dall James 6.

RICHMOND: Munch 7, Skinner 7, Heggelund 6, Stringer 6, Brown 6, Rattos 7, G. Groenewald 7, W. Groenewald 7, Papakalou 7, Bear 6 (Young 47th 7).

KEYSBOROUGH 0 SUNBURY UTD 0

KEYSBOROUGH: Ali, Castel, Elyson, Charlot, Durand, Crowley, Oxenham, Crozier, Patterson, Chapman, Andrades. Subs: Brown, MacDougall.

SUNBURY: Gmch, Duncanson, Stevens, Blackley, Clarke, Roberts, Campbell, Train, Molloy, Thompson, Stewart. Subs: Evans, Gray.

BEST: Keysborough — A.E. Durand, Andrades. Sunbury — Train, Campbell, Stewart.

Veteran Marcus Clarke returned to the sweeper's role in a reshuffled Sunbury line-up. Sunbury was by far the better of play with George Train and Campbell dominant against a fairly mediocre Keysborough outfit.

Glyn Roberts had a great chance to score for Sunbury but the ball screwed off his boot and just wide. Left winger Hughie Stewart twice was denied by the woodwork.

Keysborough can thank keeper Ali and centre half Jean Durand for keeping Sunbury at bay and gaining a valuable point.
